

With the cooperation and funding of the communications industry, I urge you to investigate ways to stop the impact of communication towers on migratory birds, to include identifying tower placement, design, and insufficient lighting that result in bird mortality. Protections for migrating birds should be implemented as soon as possible based on what information is already available, pending environmental review of all towers.